Subject: FW: Review of Chromium Integration Report

Folks,

We've hit another milestone. The draft Integration Report is attached for your review and comment. Please see the message below for details. As indicated, we've also provided the draft to the three select peer reviewers. PNNL will also be available to discuss the draft via conference call during the next meeting (if so desired).

Jamie

Please forward the following message to the Hanford Natural Resource Trustee Council and other individuals that need to review it. I will be sending out a separate notice and package of technical documents to the independent review team.

Trustees:

Please review and provide comments on the attached PDF document "Evaluation of the Effects of Chromium to Fall Chinook Salmon in the Hanford Reach of the Columbia River: Integration of Recent Toxicity Test Results". PNNL staff wrote the document at the request of the Trustees, with intent to clarify some of the outstanding issues relating to effects of chromium on chinook salmon of the Hanford Reach. We reviewed the three recent laboratory studies, two by the U.S. Geological Survey and one by PNNL (Farag et al. 2000, Delanay et al. 2001, and Patton et al. 2001), summarized results, discussed uncertainties, and made recommendations for additional research. We would appreciate your comments no later than February 28 to coincide with completion of the independent review activity. Please contact me at 509-376-3631 or via e:mail dd.dauble@pnl.gov, if you have questions on either the document or the review process. Thanks in advance for your input.
